

To whom it may concern .it is easy for Montreal to make a unilateral decision since they own the land.By adding an additional 6000 units to an already over congested area will only cause further hostility and anger management to the residents and new people using this traffic corridor .

There are already 3 factions who do not agree and are not able to compromise and work together TMR- CP rail- Ville de Montreal add to that Hampstead and Cote St Luc. The majority of decisions are made by people who do not have to endure the traffic nightmare . A proper traffic plan with emergency routes must be in place BEFOREHAND -our life history is to do everything after the fact at TWICE the cost -I only hope that some of my thoughts will not fall on deaf ears
